

For questions 1–12, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

In the exam you mark your answers on a separate answer sheet.

Example:

0 A amount B quantity C volume D extent

0	A	B	C	D

A question of safety

Life involves a certain (0) of risk, or at least it did. These days, however, governments seem to have become (1) with the idea of protecting us from it. As a result, what we actually risk most is not being allowed to live at all.

(2) , take a recent edict which emerged from the British government's health and safety department. It would be amusing if it wasn't so serious. Circus artistes performing on tightropes or the flying trapeze are being (3) to wear the type of hard hats more usually (4) with the construction industry. Under a relatively new law (5) as the 'temporary work at heights directive', such a hat must be worn for any working activity taking (6) above the height of an 'average stepladder'. Now you might think that sounds (7) reasonable, but the absurd thing is that the rule is being (8) to circus performers as well.

The first to be hit by this rule were baffled members of the Moscow State Circus, who were touring England at the time. Used to flying through the air without even the (9) of a safety net, they (10) that trapeze artistes often break arms and legs, but (11) heads. This simple fact was apparently (12) on the bureaucrats at the government department, however, who insisted that the rule be followed.

Part 2

For questions 13–27, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

In the exam you write your answers IN CAPITAL LETTERS on a separate answer sheet.

Example:

0	N	O

The hamster's body clock

Hamsters have (0) need for alarm clocks. In the strange world of circadian rhythms – the twenty-four-hour cycle (13) governs almost every biological process in every living thing, (14) body temperature to digestion to sleeping and waking – the hamster is (15) equivalent of the Swiss watch. (16) to Professor Michael Antle from the University of Calgary's Department of Psychology, you can predict to within a minute (17) a hamster is going to wake up. Humans, however, are more (18) a cheap supermarket wall-clock, since their sleeping patterns are less reliable.

Professor Antle is studying the group of 20,000 cells in the brain that (19) up the circadian clock. He's hoping to explain something astonishing that's happening to his hamsters. (20) turning on their light for fifteen minutes in the middle of the night, he can make them wake up an hour earlier the next day. But if instead he gives them a new drug that he's experimenting (21) , they're (22) and about eight hours early. They will still need their usual fourteen hours' sleep, but their biological clocks appear to (23) been set back. When he saw the effect initially in his laboratory, Antle was shocked at (24) big it was. An eight-hour adjustment is something useful – it means that a hamster could be transported from its home in Canada (25) the way to London without suffering from jetlag. If it could do (26) for people, Antle really would be (27) to something.

Part 3

For questions 28–37, read the text below. Use the word given in capitals at the end of some of the lines to form a word that fits in the gap in the same line. There is an example at the beginning (0).

In the exam you write your answers IN CAPITAL LETTERS on a separate answer sheet.

Example:

0	P	R	O	U	D

Intrepid Travel

Intrepid Travel has recently been the (0) winner of two major awards in the travel industry. Both awards relate to the company's (28) to what is known as 'responsible tourism', and have the support of, amongst others, Geographical Magazine, the periodical produced by Britain's Royal Geographical Society.

Intrepid Travel is (29) a tour operator which aims to provide its clients with holidays that take them off the (30) track in small groups, whilst at the same time allowing them the (31) and freedom to really gain first-hand experience of local cultures.

The company divides trips into two categories. The Active Range aims to combine physical challenge with cultural (32) , whereas the Comfort Range puts the emphasis more on a combination of travel to unusual destinations and some of life's small (33)

In other words, you have a (34) of Intrepid adventure to suit both your budget and your preferred level of comfort.

For example, you might find a trek in Peru more to your taste than, say, a feast in Morocco; or maybe an African safari is more likely to meet your (35) Intrepid clients get the chance to see some of the world's most (36) places, engage with real cultures and have some (37) real-life experiences along the way.
